

Abigail Stern/EDITION tea light holder, £18, Debenhams

Rowan pendant, £169, Pepper Sq

Cara armchair, £748, Philippe Starck and Sergio Schito for Kartell at Made in Design

Matera bed in Nobilis Velvet Rust, from £3,099, Heal's

Sefton throw, £175, Neptune

India rug, from £1,545, Serge Lesage at Woven

Velvet sofa in Rich Rust, £1,495, Mink Interiors

Rust cast-iron candleholder, £17, Ferm Living at Trouva

Rust red gets the runway nod at Sies Marjan

Quilt cushion, £56, BoConcept

Tulou coffee table, £165, HAY at Amara

Tear Drop mirror, £1404, Julian Chichester

Catwalk Comes Home

RUST RED

Burnt orange, the most autumnal of hues, is moving in a new direction for winter, morphing into a deeper and darker red shade with a corrosive twist. From Derek Lam's billowing trousers to the shaggy shearing coats at Sies Marjan, only the rustiest of reds made the cut on the season's runways. This oxidised colour is proving to be a home hit, too. Make like BoConcept and Mink Interiors and splash velvet textures for all-out sumptuousness, or try tarnished finishes - check out Julian Chichester's Tear Drop mirror - that nail the eroded look with ease.